Donations still sought
 Hoopeston Area teachers and the Hoopeston Public Library are still collecting donations to bring speaker Philip Gulley to Hoopeston.

Gulley, author of several books, will give a presentation to the community at 6:30 p.m. Aug. 20 at the Hoopeston Methodist church fellowship hall.

Organizers hope to raise $3,500, Gulley's fee. About two thirds of that has already been collected.

Donations may be sent to the Philip Gulley Speaker Fund at Iroquois Federal Savings.

Gulley's books are already available in Hoopeston. The Hoopeston Public Library has copies to loan and they may be purchased at Flowers and Gifts by Molly Culbert, the First Presbyterian Church and Kankakee Federal in Hoopeston and Gift Baskets by Wilma in Rossville. Books are $13 each and may be autographed by the author on Aug. 20.

Auction items sought
 Chestnut Street Church of Christ will hold an auction July 21 to help raise funds to build a new fellowship hall for the church and the community. Donations of items to be auctioned are being sought. All donations should be in good condition. Rummage and clothing will not be accepted.

To donate, call (217) 28307358.
