Hoopeston attorney re-elected to Illinois Trial Lawyers Board

Hoopeston attorney Paul T. Manion has been re-elected as a member of the Board of Managers of the Illinois Trial Lawyers Association. The announcement was made last week by James M. Collins, association executive director.

Manion has served on the ITLA Board of Managers for the past four years and has chaired or lectured at many trial seminars conducted by the Association. He has taught or lectured on law-related subjects for the University of Illinois, Illinois State University, Danville Area Community College, Roosevelt University and the University of Illinois Medical School.

Manion is one of Illinois attorneys who have been asked to author a chapter of an Illinois trial handbook to be published this fall by the Illinois Institute for Continuing Legal Education.

Manion is senior partner of the Hoopeston and Danville law firm of Manion, Devens, McFetridge & Spiros, Ltd.

He and his wife, Bonnie, reside in rural Hoopeston.
