Area students to receive DACC Presidential Scholarships

Several area students have been awarded Danville Area Community College Presidential Scholarships. The scholarships cover full tuition and fees for two years.

The scholarship program recognizes academic excellence among graduating high school seniors within the college district. This year, nine of the 22 Presidential Scholars rank academically in the top two places in their graduating classes, including eight valedictorians and one salutatorian.

Area students receiving the scholarships include:

Hoopeston Area: Stephanie Anderson and Brian Rudin.

Rossville-Alvin: Kellie Rice.

Milford: Elliot Schunke.

Other scholars are:

Armstrong: Anne Hensleigh, Casey Ludwig, and Deanna Politt.

Bismarck-Henning: Anna Wilson and Kristen Welker.

Catlin: Darcy Manyok.

Danville: Mathew Wilson, Natalie Davis and Samuel Cole.

Georgetown-Ridge Farm: Kandis Hoskins and James Chandler.

Jamaica: Ashley Haussy.

Oakwood: Daniel Sprouls and Carly Lockard.

Schlarman: Sara Carley and Amy Klein.

Westville: Clint Witsman and Jennifer Nicoson.

To be eligible for a Presidential Scholarship, students must rank academically in the top 15 percent of the graduating class. The DACC Foundation provides funding for the first year of the scholarship and the college waives tuition and fees for the second year.
