Bikers to converge on Hoopeston for fifth annual poker run

The sound of motorcycle engines will be loud and clear when area bikers converge on Hoopeston Saturday for the fifth annual BJ's Pump Poker Run.

The event is held in memory of Jack Cox, said organizer Andy Braden. "He was a real good friend of ours," he said.

This year's run will take riders from the Pump to Carbondale, Ind., then to Rickey G's in Rossville, the Road House in Penfield, PJ's in Rankin, then back to the Pump. Entry fees paid by riders will be used to pay first, second and third place prizes to winners.

Each year, bikers visit different stops along the route but always begin and end the run at the Pump, Braden said.

Various types of bikes will participate, including Harley-Davidsons and Ninja bikes, as well as some antique cars and trucks, Braden said. Last year, bad weather limited participants to about 80 but in previous years, 120-130 bikers have come to Hoopeston for the poker run.

Riders will register from 8 a.m. to noon before heading from the Pump to Rt. 9 east to Indiana. Bikers will receive a police escort from the bar to start the run, Braden said. "Seeing all of them

Summer jobs

Ashley Danner, left, Brittany Slack, Brandon Henady and Sarah Franklin, all employees at the Hoopeston Swimming Pool, get organized on opening day Monday. Although the weekend forecast calls for periodic showers over the weekend, temperatures will be just right for swimming, hovering in the low 80s.
