Hoopeston Health Center offers programs for children

Hoopeston Regional Health Center is offering two programs for children.

In conjunction with the monthly Well Baby Clinic, the health center will also offer a lead screening for children ages six months to six years.

Both will be held from 9-11 a.m. Thursday at the Charlotte Ann Russell Medical Center, 801 E. Orange, Hoopeston.

Lead is very poisonous to people and can be especially harmful to children. More than one million children may have blood levels that require medical attention and more than one million children may be somewhat mentally or emotionally impaired by lead exposure.

Lead can be found in paint, water, potter, dishes, soil, solder, mini blinds, furniture, antiques, food can seams, candle wicks, jewelry, toys, Mexican candy and electronic assemblies.

The screening will be done free for children who qualify; for others, insurance will be billed.

The Well Baby Clinic is free for children ages birth to school age. Youngsters will be examined, weighed, measured and given needed immunizations.

Freewill donations are accepted.

Hoopeston woman injured in accident south of Rossville

A Hoopeston woman was airlifted to Carle Foundation Hospital for treatment of injuries she received in an accident Sunday.

Brenda Linares, 40, was injured in the accident shortly before 1 p.m. on Route 1, about three miles south of Rossville, said Sgt. Dennis Wood of the Vermilion County Sheriff's Department.

Linares, in a 2001 Pontiac Grand Prix, was northbound, had passed several cars and was in her lane when she struck a concrete truck pulling a trailer, Wood said. The driver of the 1991 International truck had slowed to turn..

Linares' condition was not available from Carle at press time.

No tickets have been issued, Wood said.

Hoopeston area youngsters are invited to see Santa when he arrives Saturday. The jolly old elf will be part of the annual Santa Parade beginning at 11 a.m. and ending at the American Legion, 502 E. Penn.

A free lunch will be served to children at the Legion and youngsters may have their pictures taken with Santa for $3. The John Greer Concert Band will perform during the luncheon.

On Thursday, the Hoopeston Chamber of Commerce will give away tickets for children to see "The Polar Express" free. Tickets will be available at the Chamber office, 210 S. Market, from 9 a.m. to noon.

Local man surprised by honor at speedway award dinner

Kamp Motor Speedway in Boswell, Ind., put the finishing touches on its second racing season with an awards dinner Nov. 13 at The University Inn in Lafayette, Ind. Several Hoopeston area drivers came away with trophies and cash but the most surprised was Hoopeston native Gale Cunningham who received the Employee of the Year award.

John Kilgore finished in eighth place in the street stock division and received a trophy and $125.

In the super street class, Jamie Warner was the only woman to place in any division. She received tenth place, a trophy and $150. Warner's father, Bill, finished in fifth place and received a check for $400 along with his trophy. Ryan Huddleston finished third and came out with a check for $500.

Trophies in the modified division were sponsored by Hoopeston's Wilson Race Cars by Jammie Wilson. Jarrod Warner used a last-night finish to get tenth place and $200. Kevin Davis piloted his Express Lube car to eighth place and $300.

Area drivers who raced but did not place included Jim Bailey, who switched classes during the year, and Tony Irvin.

Jammie Wilson raced his late model; however he was not running for points. In the modified division, he finished a strong 28th place with only four nights of
