IGA, emergency responders sponsor Kids Fest Saturday

Area children got a close-up view of area emergency responding agencies at Saturday's Kids Fest, sponsored by Jerry's IGA.

The store's parking lot was the place to be as members of the Hoopeston Police Department, Hoopeston Fire Department, as well as an AirLife helicopter and crew from Carle Hospital, provided entertainment and information to those attending.

Children and adults got to enter the helicopter and see how patients are transported while nearby, Hoopeston firemen allowed children to man fire hoses to knock down inflatable toys.

Children also received gifts and prizes donated by area businesses, said Stan Peterson, Jerry's IGA assistant manager. "It really was a community event," he said.
