Jaidi Gossett performs karate demonstration for students

Jaidi Gossett performed a short Karate demonstration for her fifth grade classmates on April 24. Mike Webb of the Okinawan School of Karate was on hand to give an interactive school talk about the benefits of Karate training and the positive effects it has on school grades and improving the relationship with Mom and Dad at home.

Mrs. Gregory's fifth grade students learned three techniques and also a positive way to handle a bully situation during the talk.

At the end of the interactive talk Jaidi performed an empty hand Kata (form) and a weapons Kata, using the old Okinawan weapons called Kamas (sickle shaped blades used to cut wheat or grass on the farm). Jaidi is an active student at the Okinawan School of Karate in Hoopeston, is on the OSK Gold Team (Guidance on Leadership Development) and is also an honor roll student at John Greer Grade School.

She is the daughter of Jennifer Lile of Hoopeston.
