Indoors and Outdoors

By Molly Culbert

No need to tell you we had a cold, wet spring, very few of those wonderful spring days, and now, summer. The big question is "can we still plant?" Tomatoes, beans and peppers of all kinds will love the warm soil, warm nights and hot days with all this moisture in the ground. They will play "catch up" real fast with things that had been shivering. Most flowering plants will take right off so you're safe to get out there and start planting.

We planted the garden in front of my house and started the trial garden at the shop yesterday. You could almost hear some of the plants sigh of relief to get out of the green house and into God's green earth.
