CPR, first aid classes to be offered at Rossville fire station

ROSSVILLE—The Carle Center for Rural Health and Farm Safety, along with Hoopeston Regional Health Center and Rossville Fire and Ambulance, is pleased to offer these free courses in Rossville on September 14 at Rossville Fire Protection District, 617 N. Chicago St.:
 •9:30 a.m. – 1 p.m. American Heart Association Heart-Saver CPR certification with AED
 •1:30 – 4 p.m. American Heart Association HeartSaver First Aid certification
 Participants may attend one or both of the classes. According to the American Heart Association, 80 percent of cardiac arrests occur at home and are witnessed by a family member. Cardiovascular diseases are the number one cause of death in the United States. Unintentional injuries are the fifth leading cause of death, just behind chronic diseases. CPR and First Aid training may save your life, or the life of someone you love.

 Topics for CPR will include infant, child and adult choking and CPR as well as Automatic External Defibrillator (AED) use. The First Aid course will cover how to recognize and treat injuries, use appropriate equipment and supplies, and respond to various emergencies.
 Courses will include hands-on instruction and a work-
