Government health plan draws criticism from residents

Federal officials may see a health care crisis they need to address, but local residents don't agree.

Comments at a health care seminar Friday show not everyone agrees with elected officials.

The seminar, sponsored by Edward D. Jones & Co., featured a satellite broadcast with Richard Gephardt, House Majority Leader, followed by a panel discussion. Panel members included Dr. Jim Schmitz, Jerry Northam from American National Can, Tony Trimble from the Illinois Farm Bureau, Jeff Cook of Subway, Dick McMurray, McMurray Insurance and Rod Burkett of Hoopeston Community Memorial Hospital.

"I fought the wind coming up here," Trimble said. "I fought the wind during the broadcast (which was interrupted by high winds) and I noticed there was a lot of wind in the studio."

Resident Mae Spreghe compared talk of a national health care plan to the Great Society, which did not work. "I love my country and I don't want to see it destroyed," she said.
