Red Cross to provide help for local flood victims

Families devastated by Tuesday's floods may be eligible for relief from the American Red Cross.

The agency had an assessment team in Hoopeston Wednesday, said Carolyn Schwabauer, executive director for the Vermilion County Red Cross Chapter. Case management teams are expected to be in town today and Friday, she added.

Flood victims may contact the Hoopeston Multi Agency at 210 N. Market or by calling 283-5544. Calls may also be made to the Red Cross office, 431-5600.

The Red Cross can provide food, clothing and shelter for flood victims.

The agency is also accepting contributions which can be sent to 320 N. Franklin, Danville, 61832.

Local youth group sponsors dinner for work project

Planning a vacation?

How about spending a week digging a drainage ditch - through layers of rock?

Or how about building a wheelchair ramp on the side of a mountain?

Or maybe you'd like to build a stud wall to support a collapsing roof.

Fifteen youth and six adults from the Hoopeston United Methodist Church will do projects like these for one week in the Appalachia area this summer.

This will be the fifth consecutive year local groups have participated in the Appalachia Service Project, doing home repairs in the areasaid group director Vickie Goodner.

Because each crew is responsible for the money needed to purchase supplies for each project, the local group is sponsoring a spaghetti dinner/talent show at 6 p.m. Saturday at the Methodist Church.

Freewill offerings will be taken at the dinner and again at the talent show, which begins at 7 p.m. State's attorney Michael Clary will be the featured performer at the talent show, doing magic tricks, Goodner said.

The public is invited, but seating is limited, Goodner said. Reservations may be made See "YOUTH" on other side

State's attorney to perform

He's used to making criminals disappear, but Saturday night, Michael Clary, Vermilion County state's attorney, will make money, jewelry and other items vanish.

Clary and his invisible magic spirit "Salty" will present a half-hour long magic act during the spaghetti supper/talent show at the United Methodist Church.

Clary has been performing magic acts for about 20 years. "All my life I wondered, 'How do they do that?'" said the self-taught illusionist.

While at the University of Illinois, Clary said he began reading books on the subject, and began giving performances to make extra money. Now, he performs about one a month, mostly for charity events.

Like other magicians, Clary does not reveal his secrets. "The first thing you learn is magicians never tell," he said.
