Landfill to host educational open house Saturday

Anyone who's ever wondered what goes on at the Illinois Landfills, Inc., site in Hoopeston can get a first-hand view this weekend.

The landfill will host an open house Saturday as a way of educating the public about the workings of a "modern-day landfill," said manager Rich Galloway.

The open house, from 9 a.m. until noon Saturday, will include tours, giving those attending a chance to watch liner construction, trash disposal on top of a liner constructed a few months ago, and learn how the leachate collection system was put in, Galloway said.

Leachate is water that works its way through garbage, collects at the bottom of the disposal cell and is removed.

Tours will be conducted in groups of seven or eight people, Galloway said. He and David Geier, also employed by Illinois Landfills, Inc., will guide people around the facility to explain its workings.

This is the second open house sponsored by the company. The first event, held last year, drew about 100 people.

Galloway hopes more residents will attend Saturday's open house. "We feel it's important, whether you're old or new, whether you've been here before or not," he said.

In case of rain, the event will be held during the same hours on Sept. 24.

First Presbyterian Church schedules gospel concert

Homeward Bound, a gospel group from Robinson, will headline the Prayer and Praise service in the parking lot of the First Presbyterian Church of Hoopeston.

The service will be from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Other performers will be Carla Roberson and Sandy Hooper.

Everyone is invited to bring lawn chairs or blankets and enjoy this time of praise. People are encourage to come and go or stay for the entire evening.

Refreshments will be provided.

In case of rain, activities will be moved to inside the church.

Library card sign-up noted

The Hoopeston Public Library is "actively seeking new readers" in September, said Lou Graham, head librarian.

Graham made the announcement Monday at the Community Involvement Committee meeting.

September is National Library Card Sign Up Month, Graham said, so the Hoopeston library is looking for new patrons in the Hoopeston Area and Rossville-Alvin school districts.

Residents of both districts may receive a library card free of charge, she added.

In other news, Graham reported that the library will begin a new program, Family Night at the Library, on Sept. 27.

The program will begin with "Bedtime Stories at the Library," from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. Bedtime stories, a puppet play, quiet time and browsing time will make up the evening, which will end with a "good night" Hershey's kiss.

Also, Graham said the library now has eight Hooked on Phonics sets, including three donated by the parent company, Gateway Publications.

In other community news:

- Rod Burkett, president of the Hoopeston Chamber of Commerce, said the retail committee voted to consolidate with the Chamber beginning in January 1995.
- Burkett said the change is due, in part, to decreased attendance at retail meetings. More details will be available after Wednesday's Chamber executive board meeting, he said.
- construction on the 30 apartment independent living complex has begun at the hospital. Construction on the 25 additional nursing home beds will begin once final approval is given from a state architect.
- Jerry Northam of American National Can, reported business has been going well, with some equipment operating seven days each week.
