Farmers see end result of harvest at Farm Appreciation Day

American farmers feed the world, but for a group of local farmers, the tables were turned Tuesday.

Area farmers were invited to the annual Farmer Appreciation Day sponsored by the Hoopeston Rotary Club.

And after eating a lunch catered by Price Less Foods, farmers got a chance to hear and see where their product goes when it leaves the farm.

Will Duensing, technical services manager for Lauhoff in Danville, explained how corn is milled to take corn to the marketplace.

The Danville Lauhoff facility, which opened in 1942, focuses primarily on dry corn milling, Duensing said. In 1953, soybean processing was added.

The dry corn milling process separates kernels into various parts, including the bran, germ and endosperm.

Endosperm, which is 88.4 percent starch, is used to make breakfast cereals, Duensing said. Milled corn products are also used for brewing beer, prepared mixes, snack foods, batter mixes and high fiber/low calorie foods.

Lauhoff customers include General Mills, Kellogg's, Post, Old Style, Pabst, Planters, Pillsbury, Ralston-Purina, Anheiser-Busch, Jiffy and Gerber.

Rotarians helped by sponsors

Though hosted by the Hoopeston Rotary Club, Farmer Appreciation Day would not be possible without sponsors.

This year's event was sponsored by Birkey's, Palmer American National Bank, Community Bank, Arends Bros., Demeter, Kankakee Federal, CI Ag, Hoopeston Fertilizer, DM Fertilizer, Iroquois Federal Savings & LOan, First National Bank of Rossville, Kaufman Grain and Campbell Seeds.

Briefly...

Pound Puppies

Two puppies are currently available for adoption, according to Todd Underwood, Hoopeston humane officer.

The dogs, one almost white and the other brown and white, are mixed breeds, approximately eight to nine weeks old.

Adopting either of the pups will cost approximately $25, which will include the price of shots and tags.

Anyone wanting to adopt the pups should contact Underwood at 283-5196 within the next two days.

Snow routes

Residents are reminded that snow routes are in effect when total snowfall is three inches or more, said Dave Knake, city street and alley superintendent.

Food drive successful

The Hoopeston Public Library's Food for Fines drive netted more than 200 items of non-perishable food items, said head librarian Lou Graham. All were donated to the Grant Township Food Cupboard.

Police chief lists areas where city snowmobiling allowed

Last week's snows have brought out a new traffic concern for both motorists and police: snowmobiles.

Unlike cars and trucks, however, these winter vehicles are allowed only in certain areas of town, said police chief Orval Kaag.

By city ordinance, snowmobiling is allowed only in certain areas of Hoopeston, including: any alley; on Thompson Ave., from the east to west corporate boundary; Market St., from Market and Thompson to the northern corporate boundary; Sixth Ave., between Thompson and Orange; West Chestnut between Sixth Ave. and First Ave.; East Chestnut between Market and Euclid; Euclid from Orange to Penn; Penn from Euclid to Eighth St.; Eighth St. from Penn to Main; Main from Eighth St. to Seventh St.; Seventh St. from Main to the northern city boundary.

Snowmobiling on other streets is allowed if the crossing is made at an angle approximately 90 degrees to the direction of the street and at a place where no obstruction prevents a quick and safe crossing; the snowmobile is completely stopped before crossing the street; and the operator yields the right of way to all on-coming traffic constituting a hazard.

Snowmobiles are banned on any Hoopeston Area school district property.
