Convenience store changes name; under local ownership

A Hoopeston convenience store has a new name and local owners.

The former Convenient Food Mart is now Hoopeston's Convenience Food Store, said John Howell.

Howell, and his brother, Steve, purchased the store from the Convenient franchise. "They wanted to get out of the region, concentrate more on the Chicago area," Howell said.

A new sign marking the new name was installed Tuesday evening.

According to Howell, the sign is the only thing that will change.

"Nothing else has changed," Howell said. "Everything's the same."

The new name was chosen because it reflects how the owners feel about their store and the community. "I didn't want my name there," Howell said. "I didn't really know what else to call it. It's what we are."

Court-ordered program teaches parents about divorce

Editor's Note: This column is part of an on-going series written by attorneys Calvin Hultquist and Kate Giffin.

Classes for Divorcing Parents

Divorce is not easy on any member of the family.

Unfortunately, children's feelings can be forgotten while the parents are painfully breaking up and trying to start new, separate lives.

To help divorcing parents and their children get through this difficult time, the Circuit Court of Vermilion County now requires that all divorcing parents attend a special program.

Crosspoint Human Services in Danville recently created CHILDREN FIRST.

Through video tape presentations and one-on-one discussions, each parent is introduced to methods of minimizing the psychological trauma of divorce on children.

Emphasis is placed on increasing awareness of potential sources of parental conflicts and the effect such conflicts will have on the children.

The program is conducted in two separate classes scheduled on two different days. Divorcing parents will not be scheduled to attend the same classes.

For more information about the program, please contact Crosspoint Human Services at (217) 442-3200.

Since Children First is required by court order, all divorcing parents must attend.

Failure to attend the program may result in a parent being found to be in contempt of court, an offense punishable by jail.

Despite the inconvenience of the classes, the classes do produce positive results for parents and children.

We will respond to reader mail. Address inquiries to Just the Facts, P.O. Box 441, Hoopeston, IL. 60942. Legal principles discussed are general. For more information, see your lawyer.
