Illinois Migrant Council offices find new home in Hoopeston

The Illinois Migrant Council has found a new home in Hoopeston.

The organization, which offers services to local migrant workers, moved to 310 E. Main, said building owner David LaBounty. "They were in a pinch so I unpinched them," he said.

The agency was at 217-219 Bank St., but moved when the building was sold to Craftsmen Printing.

The council petitioned the city for a conditional use permit at 406 E. Thompson. The Hoopeston plan commission approved the change, but the Hoopeston city council, in a 7-1 vote, turned down the request.

Alderman Bill Goodwine was the only council member to vote in favor of the change.

Migrant Council officials could not be reached for comment.
