Mother recants story, says boyfriend backed over toddler

A woman who claimed she accidentally ran over her child with a van has recanted her story.

Connie Lynn Donnelly, who told police she ran over her 17-month-old son on Sept. 17 said Monday that her boyfriend was driving the vehicle at the time of the accident.

Gary Miller, Vermilion County sheriff's department chief investigator, said Donnelly admitted her boyfriend, Gary Halstead, was driving the van at the time of the accident.

Halstead, 25, of Kingman, Ind., admitted Tuesday that he backed the van over the boy, Miller said.

Jakob Matthew Donnelly died of massive head and internal injuries after he was hit by the van at his rural Rossville home.

ROSSVILLE—A group of local women are celebrating the good works they do in their community.

The Rossville Women of Today are taking part in national Women of Today week, Sept. 20-29, by taking a look at past projects and encouraging women to join the organization.

The Rossville chapter, founded in July 1985, has helped their community in many ways, including fundraisers for the Rossville Ambulance Service, Rossville Volunteer Fire Department, Rossville-Alvin school district, Little League, Rossville Park District, several local charities and donations to residents in times of need.

In addition, the local group has remembered senior citizens and shut-ins by delivering balloons, cookies and garden plants throughouth the year. home at the time of the accident.

Donnelly's original story, that she was driving the van, conflicted with what police found at the scene. "We felt the evidence gathered at the scene was not coinciding with the stories we've been getting from the mother and the boyfriend," Miller said.

Officials are not commenting on why Donnelly changed her story. "We're not commenting on the motive," Miller said.

While the case appears to be an accident, Miller said Donnelly and Halstead could face charges of obstructing justice. That decision will be made by the state's attorney's office, he said.

Sheriff's police are continuing the investigation into the boy's death. The investigation should be completed next week, Miller said.
