Letters to the Editor

Despite full class loads, other duties as class officers, participation in other activities and personal lives, these students devoted many hours to these memorial projects.

We often hear criticism of teenagers today and hear people ask where we will get our leaders of tomorrow. We would like to invite these people to spend time in the schools with teenagers like the ones we have been working with; then you will see that tomorrow's leaders will come from the same place they have always come from - the youth of today - and in this, we can feel secure!

Again, to these class officers, we applaud your hard work and dedication.
