Lorraine Theatre to show 'The Wizard of Oz' this weekend

Follow the yellow brick road this weekend to the Lorraine Theatre when "The Wizard of Oz" will be shown.

The 1939 film has been re-released and will be shown in its original format, said theater owner Greg Boardman. It is the Technicolor, three-stripe process, known as a dye transfer print. No theater downstate has shown it and there were only three prints like this for all of Chicago's theaters, because few Chicago theaters could show it framed properly.

"These things are important in that folks will see a much more colorful film, as the color of these dye transfer prints is so much better than what they do today for regular feature films; and the size of the print will be exactly what people saw in 1939," Boardman

Also, people who are disabled or incapacitated and who wish to vote absentee by mail should request an application from the county clerk as soon as possible after March 4. said.

“What this means is that people have (probably for the last time) a chance to experience this classic, beautiful film as it was originally presented- in a theater of the same era,” he said “It is recapturing history for a couple of hours. You can sit in a real movie theatre, not a box, and be taken back to 1939, in all of its film glory. People really should take advantage of this opportunity, and bring their kids, their parents, everyone.”

People who have seen the movie on television each year might think there is no reason to pay to see it at the Lorraine, but Boardman said there is. “Those people who love the film will enjoy so many things that cannot be appreciated except on the big screen, and in this process – details of the costumes and sets and so forth,” he said.

Movie-goers will be impressed not only with the sight of the film, but the sound, as well. “The sound is remixed in digital, and the music is wonderful-it won an Academy Award for the music in 1939,” Boardman said.

Show times for "Wizard of Oz" are Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at 7 p.m., with matinees on Saturday and Sunday at 2 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.
