Improved health is focus of new Hoopeston business

Area residents who made New Year's resolutions to keep healthy have an ally in downtown Hoopeston.

Kay Noll of Danville recently opened The Sage Room, featuring nutritional supplements and natural products for everything from hangnails to headaches.

Noll, a former health department nurse, combines that knowledge with a belief in natural remedies, such as herbs, to help people get well and stay well. She is a certified natural health professional.

The shop carries a wide range of nutritional supplements, from vitamins and minerals to products designed to rid the body of toxins.

Toxins, Noll said, cause myriad problems in the human body, including headaches. "That would fix almost everybody's problems, if they'd just cleanse and nurture," she said.

While natural remedies may not cure all illnesses, they can help wellness and are good for "those things that you don't see your doctor about," she said. "What we do is figure out where the symptoms are from."

Before recommending products, Noll does a free personal health analysis to determine which items are lacking in the body.

Noll sells Nature's Sunshine products, both because of the quality of the product and the educational information they provide.

But wellness is more than what is ingested, so Noll stocks health and beauty aids such as shampoos, soaps and deodorants. All are made with natural ingredients. For specific needs, such as chapped lips or dry cuticles, the store has Burt's Bees products with vitamin A.

And to soothe the spirit and the body, Noll has aromatherapy candles and soy candles, made from soy beans.

Health continued from other side

Along with the products, Noll offers education through books and pamphlets.

While her work as a nurse allowed her to raise six children after her husband died, Noll started becoming disenchanted with medicine around 1988. “They taught us medicine was the answer for everything,” she said. Through personal experience, however, she learned about natural remedies. “It was like walking off a cliff,” she said.

She eventually had to end her nursing career. “You can’t practice medicine and this at the same time,” she said. “this is almost the opposite from medicine.”

The Sage Room is located at 301 E. Main St. and may be reached at (217) 283-4421. Hours are 1-5:30 Mondays, 10-5:30 Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays and 10-3 Saturdays.
