Three local students to participate in leadership academy

DANVILLE—Three area high school students are among those selected to participate in the Danville Area Community college Tech Prep Student Leadership Academy.

Chad Burge and Tim Benjamin, both of Hoopeston Area High School, and Hank Mills of Rossville-Alvin High School are among 30 students to take part in the program, which helps students market high tech careers and Tech Prep to their peers and the community.

The students will go through training to give them the necessary skills to market various careers. Training will consist of leadership, communication and presentation skills, project management, team building and general information about DACC and technical programs.

The next Tech Prep Leadership Academy session is scheduled from 9 a.m. to noon Feb. 3 in the DACC Tech Center Room 141. The focus of the session will be advanced PowerPoint training.

For more information on the program, contact DACC's Tech Prep coordinator Debra Mills at (217) 443-8582.
