'Will Rogers'-like author to speak in Hoopeston Aug. 20

The man Paul Harvey Jr. describes as "the closest thing America has to Will Rogers" will speak in Hoopeston in August.

Philip Gulley, a Quaker pastor and writer from Danville, Ind., will speak at 6:30 p.m. Monday, Aug. 20 at the Hoopeston Methodist Church fellowship hall, 403 E. Main.

There is no admission charge but a donation basket will be available to cover expenses.

Gulley has been described as a mixture of Charles Kuralt, Tom Hanks and Erma Bombeck. He began writing essays for his small church in Indianapolis. One day, Paul Harvey Jr. attended the church, signed the guest registry and began receiving the bulletin. Harvey passed the essays along to his father.

Gulley's essays became the backbone of a three-book non-fictional series Front Porch Tales, Home Town Tales and For Everything a Season. He is currently working on the second book of a five-book fictional series set in Harmony. His most recent book, Home to Harmony, was published by Multnomah in October

Nursing school sets registration

Lakeview College of Nursing will hold registration the week of June 18. New students may register between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. June 18, 22 and 22 and from 1-6:30 p.m. June 19 and 21. Students may register at any time during those hours without an appointment.

Current students who have not yet registered should call (217) 443-5238.

Lakeview College of Nursing is a single-purpose institution of higher education specializing in education that grants a bachelor of science in nursing. The only baccalaureate program, it has been educating nurses for more than 100 years.

2000.

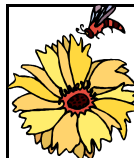

Gulley is coming to Hoopeston at the request of Hoopeston Area teachers. He will speak at the opening day institute at 9:30 that morning, have lunch and tour Hoopeston before attending a potluck at 5:30 p.m. and giving the evening presentation, said teacher Theta Lee.

The potluck is sponsored by the Hoopeston Education Association with the help of the ladies of the church.

Lee came up with the idea to have Gulley speak to teachers after reading his first book about a year ago. She was unable to locate him until after reading his second book several months ago. "I thought he would be inspirational for the teachers," she said. She then thought the community would enjoy his philosopher/humorist style.

Gulley's appearance is anchored by the school and the Hoopeston Public Library but contributions are requested to help cover his $3,500 fee. So far, $500 has been raised. Donations may be taken or sent to the Philip Gulley Speaker Fund at Iroquois Federal Savings.

Gulley's books will be available in Hoopeston before his presentation, at locations to be announced later. They will also be on hand Aug 20. A book signing will be held after his program.

Briefly

Survey meeting

The Hoopeston Visioning For the Future committee will announce the results of a community survey at 6:30 p.m. June 18 at the Hoopeston Area High School auditorium. The community is invited to attend.

June is 'Safe Return Month'

June has been designated "Safe Return Month" by the East Central Illinois chapter of the Alzheimer's Association. Special events throughout the area and free, open enrollment in Safe Return are planned. Caregivers who have loved ones who wander or might begin to wander as a result of Alzheimer's or related dementia may call the chapter at (217) 351-1726 for information. For families in crisis, the toll free hotline number is (888) 686-1726.

Safe Return is a nationwide program that assists in identifying and returning individuals with Alzheimer's or related dementia. The program offers a companion bracelet for caregivers, available on request, for those who are often away from their loved ones or who might fear a lapse in care due to an accident or health of the caregiver.

To enroll, call program director Sara Marsh.
