SIU band master works with HA High School students

Hoopeston Area High School students got an opportunity for training last week.

Dr. Thomas Bough, associate director of bands at Southern Illinois University, was at the school Thursday to work with high school and middle school bands. He also gave master classes to the brass students.

"This was a great opportunity for our students," said band director Joe Legg. "The opportunity to work with university faculty in this setting is invaluable. We were all quite excited."

Going up

Lori Misner and son, Killian, enter the newly-installed elevator at the Hoopeston Public Library. The two attended a dedication ceremony Saturday at the library. The elevator, along with new automatic exterior doors, make the library accessible to disabled patrons.

Dr. Bough is director of the Marching Salukis, the Saluki Pep Band and the University Symphonic Band. He is also the tuba and euphonium instructor in the School of Music.

He holds MM and DMA degrees in Tuba Performance from Arizona State University as a student of Sam Pilafian and Dan Perantoni and a Bachelor of Science in Music Education from Southwest Missouri State University. From 1992 to 1999, Dr. Bough was Director of Bands at Westwood High School in Mesa Arizona.
