Hoopeston hospital, nursing home receive accreditation

Hoopeston Community Memorial Hospital and Nursing Home have achieved the Gold Seal of Approval™ for health care quality from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations.

The accreditation means the facilities have complied with national standards for patient safety and quality of care.

"We seek accreditation for our organization because we want to demonstrate our commitment to patient and resident safety and quality care," said Jackie Johnson, chief clinical officer. "We view obtaining Joint Commission accreditation as another step toward achieving excellence."

National standards are intended to stimulate continuous, systemic and organization-wide improvements in performance and the outcomes of care, said Kurt Patton, executive director of the hospital accreditation program, Joint Commission. "The community should be proud that Hoopeston Community Memorial Hospital and Nursing Home are focusing on the most important goal - to continuously raise quality and safety to higher levels."

The hospital received a score of 96 out of a possible 100 and the nursing home received a 91. "We're very proud of this accomplishment," Johnson said. "We have a hard-working and dedicated staff and the proof is in our scores."

Joint Commission evaluates and accredits 17,000 healthcare organizations and is the oldest and largest standard-setting and accrediting body in health care.

The award of accreditation is for a three-year period.
