Students of Hoopeston's summer Migrant Education Program perform for parents and guests at the program's family night Monday at John Greer. Dancers were Viviana Santillana, Victoria Santillana, Emili Diaz, Analyn Zarate, Julio Pasades and Jose Diaz.

Local summer Migrant Program wraps up with family fun

Some students who have been attending classes at John Greer took center stage last night to entertain family and friends with song and dance.

The students, taking part in Hoopeston's Migrant Education Program, wrapped up their class time with a Family Night presentation Monday evening at the school.

About 65 people attended the event, which included the songs "De Ciores" and "Esta Lamparita" ("This Little Light of Mine") sung in both Spanish and English.

Girls dressed in flowing skirts and boys in sombreros danced to traditional Spanish music before the assembled students and two instructors joined in for the "Chicken Dance," along with "Itsy Bitsy Spider" and "Head, Shoulders, Knees and Toes."

During the program, teachers gave short recaps of what students had studied during the program, which provides education for migrant students in grades pre-
