Area groups awarded beautification grants

DANVILLE—Beautification projects in Hoopeston and Rossville are among 38 funded by grants from Keep Vermilion County Beautiful.

The City of Hoopeston and Village of Rossville were among 14 communities receiving grants; others were Bismarck, Belgium, Danville, Elwood Township, Fairmount, Fithian, Georgetown Township, Georgetown, Jamaica, Munie, Ridge Farm and Westville.

Additionally, Hoopeston Area was one of 12 school districts receiving a grant for flowers and landscaping. Other recipients were Bismarck-Henning, Georgetown, Danville, Jamaica and Ridge Farm.

Funding for landscaping at Hoopeston's Rotary Park, as well as beautification at Hoopeston Regional Health Center also came from grants.

Other park projects receiving funding were in Bismarck, Danville's Elmwood Park and AMBUCS.

Rossville Community Organization was awarded a grant along with Westville Depot, Vermilion Manor Foundation, Vermilion County Animal Shelter, Bunker Hill Herb Garden, Boys & Girls Club, Danville Art League, U of I Extension and Vermilion County Health Department.

St. James United Methodist Church was awarded funding for landscaping at its Habitat for Humanity house; Catlin United Methodist Church received funds again to plant flowers at Vermilion Manor Nursing Home; and Georgetown Ladies Club was awarded funds for a WWII Memorial Garden.

"This is the third year of our community grant program and we were thrilled with its success," said KVCB director Lynn Wolagamot.

Groups received $10,500. Requests were made for 49 community projects, totaling $20,720.

KVCB's membership embraces the concept of individual responsibility for community environments. "The growing popularity of this community grant program shows Vermilion County residents 'get' what we're talking about and they are stepping up to improve neighborhoods and communities all across Vermilion County," Wolgamot said.

Information about KVCB is available at www.vchd.org or by calling Wolamot at (217) 431-2662, ext. 249.
