I Sing the Body Electric artwork at Hoopeston Public Library

Students' artwork expressing health concerns is on display at Hoopeston Public Library until November 20.

The display is part of I Sing the Body Electric, a three-phase arts and health education/prevention program. The exhibit is designed to promote the goal of creating healthier, happier youth who are learning the importance of making good decisions.

In the first phase, students take a health survey. The 2008 data indicated that students' top five health concerns were alcohol, teen sexuality, body image, drugs and depression. Students have the opportunity to apply for a mini-grant to create an art project for the second phase.

Based on one or more of the top five health concerns and designed to express a positive health and prevention message, these projects are judged at an Arts & Health Festival, with winners receiving cash prizes.

The display at the library is part of the third phase, where projects are taken to various sites. More than 132,000 individuals have viewed these displays since the first tour in 2003. Response has been positive.

This community outreach is made possible by the efforts of several collaborative partners, including Hoopeston Community Memorial Hospital, Hoopeston Multi Agency, Provena United Samaritans Medical Center, Provena United Samaritans Medical Center Foundation, Danville Area Community College, Danville District 118, Vermilion County Health Department, Vermilion County Regional Office of Education and Center for Children's Services.

Stop by the library to view this unique display.

Happy birthday to us

McDonald's manager Sara Rhodes buys a cake each month to celebrate the birthdays of "regulars" during that month. Tuesday, the cake marked not only customers' birthdays but also that of the Hoopeston restaurant. The cake, created by Café Delights, marks the 34th birthday of the Hoopeston McDonald's. Plans are still in the works for a new McDonald's in the city. Pictured are Rhodes and Shelly Vaughn.
