No contests to be had in school, library, village elections

Hoopeston Area district and Rossville Village Board will each have one new member, but those bodies, and Hoopeston Public Library district will have no contests in the April 5, 2011 election.

Hoopeston Area school board will have a new member and, post-election, a new board president, as current member and president Mark Wagoner chose not to seek reelection.

"I'm glad the citizens have allowed me to serve them," Wagoner said Tuesday. "I tried to serve them respectfully."

Wagoner cited work and personal reasons for ending his eight-year tenure on the board, which has included four years as president, preceded by nearly three years as vice president.

Two four-year terms for the former Hoopeston School District are up, with incumbents Mark Schaumburg and Chris Small running. In the town-of-town seat, incumbent Chris Elliott is seeking reelection.

One two-year term is available on the board. Stewart Coffman, Hoopeston Area Sports Booster president, has filed to run for that position.

In Rossville, three seats are open and will be filled by incumbents Nancy Null and Charles Cornell and newcomer Pete Gossett.

Incumbent Scott Sprague is not seeking reelection.

Two incumbents, Janet Crouch and Wayne King, are running unopposed for two seats on that board.

Hoopeston City Council members and treasurer will also be elected in April. However, candidates for those positions have until 4 p.m. January 4, 2011 to file the necessary paperwork. One seat is up in each

Organizations may get free light bulbs for public distribution

PONTIAC—Local non-profits, local units of government that provide public assistance and senior citizen service organizations are encouraged to contact State Senator and Treasurer – elect of Illinois Dan Rutherford (R-Pontiac) for energy-efficient light bulbs.

“My office has energy-efficient light bulbs donated by the Ameren Company. These light bulbs can help local non-profits and those with needs reduce their electrical costs,” Rutherford said.

Rutherford’s district office in Pontiac has cases of energy-efficient light bulbs. Participation in the give-away is being limited to non-profit organizations, local units of government and senior citizen assistance organizations, such as nursing homes.

Interested organizations are asked to e-mail Fran@DanRutherford.com to make arrangements to pick up a pre-determined number of light bulbs from the Pontiac office.
