Briefly

Think green

University of Illinois Cooperative Extension-Vermilion County Unit will present a free program, "Think Green," from 4:30-5:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Hoopeston Public Library. The program is geared to youngsters ages five-15 and their parents/caregivers. It will encourage kids to celebrate spring and St. Patrick's Day with healthy green foods. Hands on activities, a story and green snacks will be featured. Preregistration is requested by Friday as space is limited. Call the library, 283-6711, or stop by the children's room to sign up.

Business directory to be published

In anticipation of many new people coming to the area to work on several upcoming construction projects, the City of Hoopeston will create an informational business directory, listing resources to meet their needs. Examples of those needs include housing, restaurants, gasoline, vehicle parts and repair, maintenance supplies, construction material, equipment and supplies, health-care, entertainment and numerous other requirements.

Those offering a service who wish to be included may bring or send information to Hoopeston Municipal Building, Attn: Business Directory, 301 W. Main St.,
