Local artists to be featured at Danville Arts in the Park

Two local women will be among artists displaying their work during the 23rd Annual Arts in the Park Festival in Danville's Historic Lincoln Park Saturday and Sunday.

This year's event will feature visual artists from all over the country with around 60 booths featuring artwork for sale and display. Claudia DeWitt of Hoopeston is among those having a display at the festival.

The Danville Art League Display will feature around 50 local artists' work, including Margaret Matthews, of Rossville.

At 1:30 pm on Saturday, cash awards and ribbons will be announced and awarded to the winners in various categories for the both the booth exhibitors and the Art League.

In addition, performers with styles ranging from Bluegrass to Broadway to Big Band to the Symphony under the Stars will be on stage. The Visual Artists booths will be open from 10am to 5pm both days and on stage performances will be from 10 am to 9 pm on Saturday and Sunday's schedule from 10:30 am until 8 pm.

The Children's Circle will provide youngsters an opportunity to get “hands-on” experience in various aspects of art, and help them find out that art can be fun!
