Rossville man sentenced to 30 years in federal prison

A Rossville man has been sentenced to 30 years in federal prison after pleading guilty to five counts of sexual exploitation of children.

Andrew L. Thomas, 47, was sentenced Friday after he pleaded guilty to posing as a female to get pornographic pictures through text messages and emails, of several underage boys.

Thomas was sentenced by U.S. Magistrate Michael P. McCuskey to 30 years on each of the five counts. The sentences will run concurrently, with a migration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) agency, after pictures of minors were found on the computer.

Thomas was indicted by a federal grand jury last September on the sexual exploitation of children charges. According to the indictment, between January 2007 and March 2010, Thomas adopted several female personas, then used social networking sites, texting on pay-as-you-go cell phones and email accounts to solicit pornographic images of teen boys.

Thomas must serve 85 percent of his sentence and when he is released, must register as a sex offender for the remainder of his life. He may not have contact with anyone under 18 without adult supervision.

Additionally, he must receive sex offender and psychiatric treatment as deemed necessary, random drug testing and DNA collection.

Also, his computer must be installed with software blocking inappropriate websites and his internet use and other electronic devices will be monitored.

Children set 50th anniversary open house for Larry, Caroline Ridl

The children of Larry and Caroline Ridl are hosting a 50th wedding anniversary celebration for their parents on Saturday, July 9, 2011 at the Hubbard Trail Country Club in rural Hoopeston.

The open house portion of the celebration is open to friends and family and will begin at 6 p.m. Commencing at 6:30 p.m. will be a renewal of vows ceremony officiated by Bruce McQuigg. The omission of gifts is requested by the family, who note the presence of friends and family is the best gift.

Larry Ridl of Renville, Minn., and Caroline Ervin of Rossville, met while Larry was stationed in Hoopeston at the U.S. Army radar site. The couple was married on Saturday, July 8, 1961 at Saint Anthony Catholic Church in Hoopeston. Larry's brother Kenny was his best man and Caroline's sister-in-law Freddie was her maid of honor. Larry & Caroline have two children, Mark & Paula Ridl of Hoopeston, and Larry and Deb Ridl of Potomac. They also have one grandchild, Jesse Gillette of Milford.

Larry is retired from General Motors, and Caroline is a homemaker. The couple has lived their entire married life in Rossville, Illinois.

If you are unable to attend but wish to send your congratulations, cards or letters may be addressed to Larry and Caroline Ridl, 405 Benton, Rossville, Illinois 60973.
