Concern about senior housing
While I look forward another independent living apartment in conjunction with Carle's plans for the new nursing home and possibility of future assisted living apartments in that same complex, plus the assisted living planned for the Orange and Market streets area, what most concerns me is the cost to future seniors who need to live in these apartments. As things currently stand, we have one in Danville and Urbana that people with little income can live and Medicaid kicks in the balance, similar to a nursing home. But with the feds and our state governments cutting all kinds of help for the needy, future prospects do not look good for these arrangements.

How many people do we know can afford nearly $2,000 or more a month for independent or assisted living? I can count maybe five I know. Most of us cannot afford this. We pray there will be some way to help the needy if they should need these arrangements.

It is quite clear that the future for Hoopeston is these type senior living places, as many cities have had for a few years, as we age. It is an economic boom to town as many people will have to be employed from medical personnel, housekeepers, kitchen workers, etc.
