Police News

Tyler G. Burke, 20, of Hoopeston, was arrested after an altercation at 3:15 p.m. Thursday in the 500 block of North Third Street. He was charged with intimidation and assault on a complaint from a 22-year-old Hoopeston woman and was taken to the Public Safety Building in Danville.

Julie Stump, of Hoopeston, was taken to Hoopeston Community Memorial Hospital after she was struck by a car Thursday.

Police said Rebecca Coleman, 58, of Hoopeston, in a 2001 Pontiac Sunfire, was charged with failure to yield to pedestrian in a crosswalk after she allegedly struck Stump at Fourth Street and Maple.

Thomas L. Dalton, 25, of Hoopeston was arrested at 3:10 a.m. Saturday in the 500 block of West Penn. He was charged with domestic battery on a complaint from a 27-year-old Hoopeston woman, who alleged at 1:40 a.m. that Dalton assaulted her in the 400 block of West Washington.

Police said that because Dalton is on parole, through Illinois Department of Corrections, the state also issued a warrant for his arrest for parole violation.

Dalton was taken to the Public Safety Building in Danville.

Irvin G. Warner, 52, of Hoopeston, was charged with the battery of a 52-year-old Hoopeston man. The arrest came after police and emergency medical personnel were called at 1:38 p.m. Saturday to the 300 block of South Market for a report of a battered man.

The victim was treated and released from Hoopeston Community Memorial Hospital.

Warner was taken to the police department where he was charged and released on a recognizance bond.

Remembering Reagan's policies

One year ago, our state celebrated the 100th birthday of President Ronald Reagan, a true Illinoisan, to recognize his accomplishments and celebrate the prosperity he brought to America.

As we now reflect on what would have been President Reagan's 101st birthday, it's an ideal time to highlight his signature economic philosophies that our state could emulate as we attempt to navigate our way out of our own financial calamity. Ronald Reagan demonstrated the courage it takes to be an effective public servant.

I first met candidate Reagan soon out of college at Illinois State University when he asked me to lead his Illinois campaign. My passion for politics and my understanding of his message of lower taxes and less government spending made my answer an easy "yes." As the Illinois state director for then Governor Reagan's first presidential campaign in 1980, his wife, Nancy, and I traveled to many parts of Illinois in a station wagon with a California state trooper to campaign.

America's financial turnaround overseen by President Reagan after some very dismal years in the 1970s can help illuminate a way forward for our state leaders to avoid further financial problems in Illinois. Ronald Reagan governed from the perspective that economies flourish and jobs are created when taxes are lowered, regulations on job creators are lessened, and government spending is reduced! He often left room for compromise to avoid gridlock, but he always stayed true to his fiscal beliefs. For the state to recover from its financial situation, leaders in Illinois should follow Reagan's lead and adopt these same principles.

President Reagan was the only U.S. president born and raised in Illinois. He was born in Tampico, spent his
