Adult Community - Hoopeston Illinois

USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) will manage the initiative and make financial and technical assistance available to farmers and forest landowners to improve water quality in priority watersheds. Illinois farmers and forest landowners in the three Vermilion County NWQI watersheds have until May 17, 2013 to submit an Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) application.

Vermilion County watersheds include:

- Lake Vermilion Watershed 17,656 acres
- Lake De Revey 19,168 acres
- Painter Creek 22,775 acres

The three priority watersheds in Vermilion County cover approximately 60,000 acres. Eligible producers with concerns such as soil erosion and water quality can apply for funds through EQIP to install conservation practices such as cover crops, grassed waterways, terraces, and water and sediment control basins on their land.

While NRCS accepts applications for financial assistance on a continuous basis, Illinois NRCS will have an
