Good things happening here

Hoopeston's renewal appears off to a good start. Our civic center has a makeover which certainly should be noticed by passers-through on our Dixie and we have had fun in the park for families and children. Our library has had for a long time good programs for children and even some older folks.

I pray the "Street Party" downtown this weekend is a success for all concerned. It looks like a lot of good activities for hours for all ages.

My biggest concern - yes, as usual - is the alcohol at night. I know there will be rules and security where/when needed. Just some people have to spoil things for everyone else and I hope that does not happen.

A big concern also is the "hard rock" and "heavy metal," which is not healthy for the spirit, but then, some would have said neither is "rock 'n roll." And unless things have changed, that stuff is loud, earsplitting. We shall see-or hear. Just thankful I do not live close but doubtless, will hear that racket anyway with loudspeakers being the way they are.

ers being the way they are.

All said, I do hope and pray success, and with that will hopefully be more such events, which will lead to more and then more out-of-towners coming to enjoy and revitalizing our town. These things will not happen overnight but as long as folks are willing to work hard and plan hard and smart better times will arrive for Hoopeston in due time.
