Whoo is the first winner in the Just the Facts photo contest?

The first winner in the Just the Facts Summer Photo Contest is a former Hoopeston man now in Georgia.

Jeff Eyrich's photo of a barred owl was chosen for the first winner by a panel of judges that includes a photo-journalist and professional and amateur photographers.

In selecting Eyrich's entry, the panel commented on the subject along with varying colors and textures coming together for an interesting snap.

Dozens of entries were received for the first round of the contest, which ended July 21, including photos of animals, landscapes and children. The contest runs through September 21.

Frerichs, CRIS sponsor senior citizen workshop Monday

Senator Michael Frerichs will host a free informational senior workshop at the CRIS Healthy-Aging Center, 309 N. Franklin St., Danville, from 9:30 a.m.-noon Monday, Aug. 11.

The workshop will feature a presentation by a representative of the Illinois Attorney General's office to educate seniors about financial scams and health care fraud.

Also providing information to seniors at this workshop will be Country Store Health Foods, Faith in Action, the East Central Illinois Community Action Agency, and the CRIS Healthy-Aging Center. Walgreens will be at the workshop performing health screenings.

There will also be a special demonstration of Zumba exercise in which seniors attending the workshop can participate.

For more information about the Senior Informational Workshop at CRIS sponsored by Senator Michael Frerichs, contact the Frerich's office at (217) 442-5252 or CRIS Healthy-Aging Center at (217) 443-2999.
