Project Future program helps students create career goals

A free program designed to help high school students determine a career path and how high school can help them achieve their goals is being held

Project Future - Creating the Dream is a two day summer program for high school students, presented by Carla Boyd, director of Career Services at DACC and Karla Coon, director of the DACC Hoopeston Higher Learning Center.

The program will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesday, June 14 and Thursday, June 16.

Many high school students may not know what kind of career would be best for them. Project Future was developed as a way to help students learn about themselves and find out what type of work they will enjoy most.

By knowing what they want to do, students then can begin to establish some goals for themselves and see how their time in high school will help their goals become a reality.

Project Future is being offered to any high school student from Hoopeston, Milford, Armstrong, Bismarck or Cissna Park. There is no cost for students to participate.

Call the DACC Higher Learning Center at 217-283-4170 for more information or to register. Registration closes on Friday, June 10.

From the Blotter

Nathan Blanton, 20, of Hoopeston, was arrested after police were called at 9:29 p.m. Thursday to Parkview Court when a 34-year-old Hoopeston man alleged someone who urinated in public, then left the area.

Blanton was located and charged with unlawful acts constituting disorderly conduct and released on a notice to appear in Hoopeston City Court.
