Honeywell students donate more than 1,700 books for tree

During the first two weeks of October, Honeywell students and staff brought in new and gently used books to donate towards the Book Tree the United Samaritans Medical Center is sponsoring at the Festival of Trees. The organization is building a 22 foot tree out of books!
The book tree will be on display at the Festival of Trees November 12-16, at the Palmer Civic Center in Danville. All books will be donated to local charities after the festival.

Honeywell collected 1,755 books to donate! We are so very proud of the generosity of these students.
Laura Anderson's class brought in the most books with a whopping 415 books! They will celebrate with a pizza party!

American Indian influence honored

The National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution honor American Indians, observing November as National American Indian Heritage Month. NSDAR recognizes the history and culture of our great nation have been significantly influenced by American Indians. Contributions of American Indians have enhanced the freedom, prosperity, and greatness of America today.
Native American Awareness Week began in 1976 and recognition was expanded by Congress and approved by President George Bush in August 1990, designating the month of November as National American Indian Heritage Month.

The local Barbara Standish Chapter joins the NSDAR in further educating ourselves and the general public, promoting cultural activities and providing financial and material assistance to the DAR supported schools Bacone College located in Muskogee, Ok. and the Chemawa Indian School, in Salem, Ore., the American Indian Youth Summer Camps Program, and helping provide scholarships for Native American youth. Each meeting the chapter observes an American Indian Minute and each year learn of a great American Indian. A few of the programs of the past include The Kickapoo History, Illinois Tribes, Quannah Parker, Pretty Shield and Chief Joseph. DAR members dedicate themselves to honor and serve the original inhabitants of this land. Much information may be found at The Smithsonian National Museum of the American Indian Heritage Month celebrations featuring exhibitions, festivals and screenings.

From the Blotter

No tickets or injuries were reported in an accident at 5:14 p.m. Wednesday. Police said John Elliott, of Hoopston, in a 2008 Chrysler van, was northbound on Fifth Ave. and failed to yield at West Lincoln. Luis Aviles Jr., of Hoopston, in a 2005 Toyota, tried to avoid Elliott, drove off the road and hit a utility pole.
