HPL celebrates 'Libraries Transform' during library week

Hoopeston Public Library is planning a variety of activities to celebrate National Library Week, April 10-15. This year's theme for the event is "Libraries Transform" and all local residents are invited to visit HPL to discover the many programs and services available.

Every adult, teen or child who signs up for a new library card during the week will receive a small gift. In addition, there will be some fun prize drawings throughout the week for all patrons.

A schedule of the other activities planned includes:
MONDAY, residents are invited to drop in from 10-11 a.m. for free coffee and donuts, and to enjoy piano music provided by local musician, Scott Pittman, in the new adult reading area.

A "Fiction Only" Book Sale also begins at 10 a.m. Monday and will run through Saturday, or until everything is gone. This sale will feature a fresh variety of paperback and hardcover titles by popular authors. Everything is priced at $1.00 per bag.

Interested in "Digital Reading" with a smart phone or tablet? HPL offers three online digital libraries: 3M Cloud Library, Zinio for Magazines and Comics Plus (graphic novels for all ages). If you need help setting up
