Hoopeston residents involved in separate weekend wrecks

A Hoopeston man was injured in an accident Saturday morning, while a Hoopeston man escaped injuries in an accident Saturday afternoon, both in rural Vermilion County.

According to an Illinois State Police report, Samuel R. Mikel, of Hoopeston, was airlifted to an area hospital after his Ford F150 truck struck a Peterbilt truck tractor at 10:43 a.m. Saturday.

According to the report, Mikel was westbound on 550 North when he allegedly became distracted and hit the truck tractor, driven by Todd B. Harweger, 56, of Buckley, who had stopped and was halfway through the intersection when the accident occurred.

Harweger did not report injuries at the time of the accident.

Mikel was ticketed for failure to stop at a stop sign and using an electronic communication device while driving.

A condition report on Mikel was not available at press time.

In the second accident, Penny S. Boren, 70, of Danville, was northbound on Rt. 1 at 2:24 p.m. Saturday when her 2010 Mercury Mariner rear-ended a 2007 Jeep Wrangler, driven by Jacob R. Nelson, 38 of Danville.

The collision pushed Nelson's vehicle into the southbound lane, where it crashed into a 2007 Chevrolet Silverado driven by Justin Charles Jeffries, 27, of Hoopeston.

According to the report, Boren was taken to a Danville hospital, then airlifted to another hospital.

Nelson and a 13-year-old passenger were treated at Carle Hoopeston for what were called non-life threatening injuries.

Jeffries and two passengers, Brook E. Cremonesi, 24, and Thomas Cremonesi, 28, of Rankin, reported no injuries.

Boren was cited for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident.
