DACC to hold planning forums at Danville, Hoopeston sites

DANVILLE – Officials at Danville Area Community College will host two public planning forums on Thursday, March 8, seeking community input for the college's strategic plan.

The first session will be held at 4 p.m. in Vermilion Hall room 306 on the Danville campus, 2000 E. Main St.; the second will be held at the DACC Higher Learning Center, 847 E. Orange St. in Hoopeston at 6:30 p.m.

The purpose is for college representatives to gather ideas from the community to formulate DACC's plans for the next year and beyond.

"We want to hear your ideas about the college: Tell us what is working, what could be improved, or what could be eliminated," said Robert Mattson, DACC's executive director of Institutional Effectiveness and Planning. "Your opinion matters to us as we develop our strategic planning "Matrix" for the coming year."

Those planning to attend may RSVP to Kerri Thurman at kthurman@dacc.edu or by calling (217) 443-8850.
