Challenges

I bet you've had a few! Seems like every year, there is a new challenge. As a wife and Mother there is no end to making decisions and not knowing for years if you made the right one.

Being a wife is usually doing what someone else wants you to do and sometimes it's doing things together that does not fit our personality. A challenge is really always teaching me something.

Same applies to being a Mother, only harder because kids have minds of their own and they challenge us on right or wrong, curfews and responsibilities, fashion and where to go and who to talk to. I really thought as a Mother I might have control. Wrong! The only control was keeping me from going crazy when the next child posed a challenge.

Husbands are great. I couldn't do without mine, however, with them, challenges never end. Kids are sweet and the challenge is to raise them to be honest, hardworking responsible adults. Raising good kids is a challenge that none of us should take lightly.

Husbands and Fathers, too, encounter wives or significant others as their first of many challenges. We gals are not always the easiest to get along with: we want sheets and towels folded a certain way, a call if you are late and we want you to let us go shopping when we want. Just a few of many wants!

Fathers may find joy in the challenges of teaching a child to throw a baseball or kick the soccer ball or choosing an instrument to play in the band. They like to stay out of teaching good behavior or to discipline. I always knew Mom was the tough one.

Whether a wife, Mother, Father, husband, uncle, aunt, grandparent or friend each of you has had challenges, whether it involves health, loss of a friend, no money, no job. Just the challenge to survive. Challenges make us who we are. Good news is that you have me to encourage you, just ask. You have friends and family that would help. Just ask.

Take time to be calm, smile and remember, every challenge has a purpose and will teach you. Don't walk away, don't be afraid. Be thankful for your life and your challenges. Life is filled with good days. We just have to open our heart and mind to them. Life is fragile. Handle with care!

From the Blotter

Angela Julian, 25, of Gilman, was arrested after a traffic stop at 1:51 a.m. Sunday at Sixth Ave. and Elm. Stopped for a traffic violation, alleged methamphetamine was found during a search of the vehicle. Charged with possession of the drug, she was taken to the Public Safety Building in Danville to await arraignment.

Two Hoopeston juveniles were arrested in connection with a report made at 2:44 a.m. October 20, when a 23-year-old Hoopeston man reported seeing two people enter his vehicle without permission.

After an investigation, a 15-year-old Hoopeston girl and 17-year-old Hoopeston boy were each charged with criminal trespass to vehicle.

Each was released on a notice to appear in Hoopeston City Court.

Tammy T. Wolf, 38, of Watseka, was arrested after a traffic stop at 2:56 p.m. Monday at Main and Ninth Ave. Found to have a suspended license, she was also charged with operating an uninsured vehicle, disobeying a traffic control device, failure to transfer title in 20 days and improper use of registration.

Wolf was released on notices to appear in Vermilion County traffic court.
