NWS marks Severe Weather Preparedness Week March 3-9

A tornado warning in Alabama gave residents just 12 minutes to prepare for twisters that left 23 people dead. Illinois is no stranger to strong storms and tornadoes and the National Weather Service is reminding people to prepare during Severe Weather Preparedness Week, March 3-9.

During the week, Illinois residents are encouraged to consider thunderstorms, tornados and flooding and what they and their families should do in each event.

Tornadoes are the most severe of Illinois storms. The National Weather Service recommends thinking now about how to deal with a tornado, if one should occur. Beforehand, make sure family members know the safe location in your home. Store an emergency kit, with food and medicine for family and pets, water, lights, medical supplies, pet supplies and an emergency radio in the safe location. Identify where to go if you are at work or school and make a family communication plan.

During a tornado, go to your safe location or storm shelter if you are in a mobile home. Stay away from windows on the lowest level of the building. If caught outside, get in a car, buckle up and try to drive to the closest sturdy shelter. Never seek shelter under a bridge and only lie flat in a ditch as a last resort.

After a tornado, beware of downed power lines, broken gas lines and sharp/dangerous debris. Avoid damaged areas. Stay off roads to allow rescue workers to clear passage and follow instructions from local officials.

Severe thunderstorms can also be deadly, with lightning, high winds and hail.

Lightning is the most formidable hazard during storms. There is no safe place outdoors during a thunderstorm, according to the NWS, so the best place to be is indoors.

Storm spotter training April 10

A storm spotter training class will be held Wednesday, April 10 at the Tilton Community Center, 612 W. Fifth St., Tilton, for anyone wishing to become a certified storm spotter.

Severe storm spotters are a vital part of the warning process. Spotters provide critical, potentially live saving information to their communities and surrounding locations and to NWS forecasters who are using the reports to help issue warnings and keep the public updated during severe weather events.

Anyone with an interest is welcome to attend a spotter class. Children (under the age of 18) are welcome to attend the class, however, they will not be considered official spotters. There is no cost for this training, just 2 1/2 hours of your time for the class.

The spotter training class is designed for people new to severe storm spotting, as well as those that need refresher training. The training is comprised of all of the information that spotters need to be effective and stay safe.

pulling to the side of the road and turning on hazard lights for safety.

Both tornados and thunderstorms can result in flooding, the final warm weather severe weather hazard. People are advised not to drive through floodwaters, around barricades on flooded streets and not walk into floodwaters.

The spotter training class is designed for people new to severe storm spotting, as well as those that need refresher training. The training is comprised of all of the information that spotters need to be effective and stay safe.

To slightly minimize the risk of being struck by lightning, recommendations include avoiding open fields; the tops of ridges and hills; tall, isolated trees; water; wet items and metal objects.

Tents and open air buildings like picnic shelters will not protect people from lightning.

Indoors, do not touch electrical equipment or electronics plugged into the wall; stay off corded phones and avoid plumbing; stay away from windows and doors and stay off porches; and do not lie on concrete floors or lean against concrete walls.

Motorists in a hardtop car are safe from lightning if they close all windows and do not touch metal objects in the car. NWS recommends pulling to the side of the road and turning on hazard lights for safety.
