Harbor celebrates school's end, welcomes middle schoolers

A Hoopeston youth center is celebrating the end of school and targeting a new age of participants.

A Skool's Out Party will be held from 2-5 p.m. Saturday at The Harbor, 907 W. Main.

The free event will feature hot dogs, chips and Icees, as well as face painting, joyful bubbles, dunk tank and bounce houses, said director Vince Gossett. There will also be free throw and 3 point contests and door prizes throughout the event. Everyone is welcome.

The party marks the end of school and the start of welcoming middle school-aged children to the center, which had previously served high school students.

Gossett, who has been the director since The Harbor opened in 2017, said switching to the younger group is something he has wanted to do since he took the position. "God had laid it on my heart when I took over that, this was the direction we needed to go," he said.

First Church of God, which opened the youth center, had a consultant come in a couple of months ago to evaluate the center and he concurred with Gossett. Church elders agreed and plans were made for the change.

Many of the activities will remain the same: air hockey, foosball, video games and, of course, food. Popcorn, pizza and water will be available. Gossett said an arts and crafts area will be added in the near future.
