Hoopeston Area announces online student registration

Hoopeston Area CUSD #11 is excited to announce an online student registration/data validation system for the coming school year, powered by PowerSchool. The system is a secure and green process, allowing the district to verify all student demographic, emergency and medical information for each child prior to the start of the new school year. The system will also allow parents to electronically sign annual permission forms for school district policies, replacing the hard copy student registration and permission forms that parents have had to fill out each year.

Parents will receive registration information next week, either in the mail or by email, if an address is on file. Instructions for parents to access the system for their child, along with the dates and times that parents will be able to register online, will be enclosed.

Also enclosed will be a secure "snapcode" that links directly to the student's information. Parents will then create an account to use each year for this process, and submit a form for each student in the family. To make the process easier for families with multiple students, parents will have the option to copy all generic family information to all other students in the family.

Families are encouraged to complete these forms during the designated registration dates. A child's registration will not be complete until the forms have been submitted and payment and/or book waivers are processed.

Those who do not have internet access will be able to visit their child's school, during registration hours and use a school computer to complete the process.

For more information, parents may contact their child's school office.

Brother/sister duo team up for art-themed cancer fundraiser

Hoopeston natives Matthew Parsons and Marie Parsons McCarty have teamed up with Alumni Art Students from Fountain Central High School and the Melanoma Research Foundation to present an online Art Sale that kicks off this Friday, July 31st!

McCarty has her dream job, teaching and running the fine arts department at Southeast Fountain Schools, in central Indiana. But just over two years ago, she began her battle with melanoma cancer. She has gone through two surgeries and numerous rounds of treatments, and this spring, she entered the third phase of her battle.

"'You have melanoma' - the words rang deeply in my ears and changed the course of my life forever," McCarty said. "But my students have been a continuing source of strength and hope, from students who have listened to my struggles, chipped in around my classroom, or those who made time to help create art for our online sale. My incredible students surround me every day and make me grateful for the life I have been blessed with."

After McCarty's spring art show was canceled due to Covid 19, Parsons pitched an idea, asking if they could put together an art sale to raise money and awareness for the Melanoma Research Foundation. McCarty said yes and the work began!

"It was time to do something," Parsons said. "When it comes to cancer, there is only so much you can control. I was just tired of being upset every time I thought about my little sister suffering and battling. So, we decided to do the best we could with what we had. My sister's students adore her, and she loves what she does, so it was a perfect time to get this done."

Contributing artists include McCarty, Parsons, two of her sons and 20 fine arts alumni from Fountain Central High School. The Melanoma Research Foundation is hosting the online ecommerce site for the sale from July 31 - August 9. A link to the sale may be accessed at www.facebook.com/groups/2525842804394746/.

You may purchase art pieces or make a direct contribution. All proceeds go directly to benefit the Melanoma Research Foundation.
