Can company has can-do attitude for new b-ball goals

McFerren Park's basketball goals had been in sad shape for a while. Three entities in the city did something to change that.

Jesus Avitia, an employee at Silgan Containers, brought the matter to the attention of Plant Manager Mike McMeekan and asked if the company could do something about it.

McKeekan did not drop the ball on the request. Instead, he contacted Mayor Bill Crusinberry with information on two MegaSlam 2 FX60 goals and an offer to pay $2,000 of the $3,358 cost.

Brian Silver, of Silver Brothers, stepped up, pouring donated concrete to anchor the goals.

City of Hoopeston joined the team, paying the remainder of the cost and using the expertise of parks department personnel to assemble and help install the goals earlier this month.
