Wine, coffee shop to thank community with free dinners

A downtown eatery is giving back to the community on Thanksgiving Day.

112 Wine & Coffee Shop plans to give away 400 Thanksgiving dinners Thursday. The to-go feasts will be available from 10 a.m. to noon. Reservations are not required and anyone who wants one can come to the restaurant, at 112 E. Main, and get one while they last.

The menu will be turkey and noodles, mashed potatoes, green beans, stuffing, roll, and a slice of pie.

Owners Emily and Bob Brown are big supporters of Hoopeston, and give back often. In September, 112 hosted a parking lot party with proceeds going to a fund to build a skate park in Hoopeston. The $5-per-person cover charge was donated toward the skate park and raised $1,157, which was matched by another family business, Bricks and Ivy Sports, at 201 E. Main, for a total donation of $2,314.

That the couple purchases vacant buildings and turns them into businesses also gives back to the community in the form of property taxes that fund the city, schools, library and township, among others.

Along with the restaurant and sports memorabilia store, in July, the Browns added 207 E. Main - a for-
