Lorraine board honored for preserving historic theater

A Danville organization has honored the Lorraine Foundation Board for its work in preserving the historic theater.

Old Town Preservation Association of Danville recently presented the award to the board for its work in not only saving the Lorraine Theatre structure, but for continuing its long history of providing entertainment to Hoopeston and the surrounding area.

Old Town was formed in June 1989 to foster and encourage the preservation and conservation of the natural and built environment of Danville and the surrounding areas. By promoting preservation, the association helps communities maintain the unique character of their town, revitalize neighborhoods, provide jobs for skilled craftsman and artisans, instill pride from the knowledge of shared heritage and improve the economic base through tourist and tax dollars.

Honor continued from other side

One of the association’s directors, Fontella Fraley Krout, purchased the Lorraine and Little Lorraine after a previous owner filed bankruptcy. She then donated the theaters to the Save the Lorraine Foundation.

Old Town has awarded 170 Legacy Awards for exemplary preservation in Vermilion County, offers educational tours and bus trips, summer picnics and open houses, has salvaged architectural materials for reuse and resale to fund various projects, and has raised more than $35,000 in the past 30 years, which was donated to historic preservation in Vermilion County.
