David Silver seems to chomp at Tony Irvin with his excavator, but in fact, the Silver Brothers crew were working Monday on footings for Hoopeston's new NAPA store, located next to Heritage Health. Brian Silver, owner of Silver Brothers, expected concrete to be poured at the site Tuesday.

Preparatory work underway for new Hoopeston NAPA store

After a four-year wait, Watseka resident Roger Dittrich is finally getting his new NAPA store.

Silver Brothers was on-site Monday trenching for the new store's footings. As his dad, David, excavated the trench, Brian Silver said concrete was expected to be poured Tuesday.

Dittrich came to the Hoopeston City Council in March to ask for help in relocating his business from its current downtown location to the new location on Rt. 1. Dittrich told the council then that the 6,000 sq. ft. store will cost about $400,000 to put up, on land purchased from Hoopeston Retirement Village Foundation, and will create additional property taxes for Hoopeston.

He expects to see, at minimum, a 30 percent increase in sales, he said.

Dittrich told the council that he had not had much luck dealing with Hoopeston over the preceding four years.
