Pritzker signs CO sequestration, Rose files bill in response

SPRINGFIELD—In a controversial move that has drawn sharp criticism from both sides of the aisle, Gov. JB Pritzker signed Senate Bill 1289, allowing carbon sequestration under the Mahomet Aquifer, a critical water source for central Illinois. Despite strong opposition

From the Blotter

Ryan Nosler, 29, of Hoopeston, was arrested at 9:46 p.m. Saturday in the 700 block of West Orange. Wanted on a Vermilion County warrant for failure to appear, he was released on a notice to appear in Vermilion County Circuit Court.

A cell phone was turned in to police Sunday, found in the area of Fourth Ave. and West Orange. The owner may identify and claim it at the police station.

from local legislators, including State Sen. Chapin Rose (R-Mahomet), Pritzker signed it into law without a ban on CO2 storage beneath this vital aquifer. In response, Sen. Rose filed new legislation to help protect the Mahomet Aquifer.

Rose expressed his extreme disagreement with Pritzker's decision. "Gov. Pritzker's decision to sign this bill proves that he is more worried about issuing press releases pretending to be 'green' than he is about the future of clean water for central Illinois," he said. "And all the while, 'Governor Green' is making sure that his rich buddies in big businesses are reaping big profits off this potential threat to our water. By ignoring the clear dangers posed by storing CO2 beneath our most precious natural resource, the Mahomet Aquifer, his signature today on this bill isn't just a failure of environmental stewardship, it's a reckless gamble with our public health."

According to Illinois Prairie Research Institute, the Mahomet Aquifer, designated as a "Sole Source Aquifer" by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), provides hundreds of millions of gallons of water every day to nearly 1 million people in East Central Illinois for residential, industrial, and agricultural uses. Protection and management of this groundwater resource is critical to maintain and grow the region's economy. Concerns have been raised about the potential for carbonic acid formation from CO2 interaction with the water, which could mobilize hazardous contaminants, including heavy metals such as arsenic.

In response to Pritzker signing the bill, Rose filed a new bill, Senate Bill 3963 that bans carbon sequestration activity over the federally designated solo source Mahomet Aquifer.

"It's beyond belief that Gov. Pritzker would prioritize industry interests over the safety of our water supply," said Sen. Rose. "It's not like the Governor wasn't aware of the risks. In fact, a bi-partisan group of legislators sent him a letter before this bill passed, demanding to keep the CO2 off the aquifer. The risks associated with storing CO2 under the Mahomet Aquifer are too great to ignore. This decision puts the health and safety of countless Illinois residents at risk."

Rose urges the public to support his efforts to ban sequestration on the Mahomet Aquifer by signing a petition, now available on his website, supporting SB 3963. "I encourage everyone to make their voice heard by signing this petition to keep our drinking water safe," Rose concluded.

The passage of Senate Bill 1289 has sparked widespread outcry and raised questions about the long-term impacts of carbon sequestration on the Mahomet Aquifer. Critics argue that the bill's approval marks a dangerous precedent for environmental policy in Illinois.
